Regional emergency transportation routes (ETR) update | Phase 2

Prioritizing and tiering the network routes

Disasters, both natural and human-caused, can happen anytime, and the transportation system needs to be prepared to withstand them and support lifesaving and life-sustaining activities.

Project overview

New technology, data and mapping have greatly expanded the region's understanding of potential hazard risks, including earthquakes, wildfires, landslides, floods, volcanoes and other extreme weather events.

Coordinated emergency management planning helps mitigate the risks these hazards pose to the public health and safety of communities and the region's economic prosperity and quality of life. Identifying emergency transportation routes is a critical element of emergency preparedness for the region.

First designated in 1996, regional Emergency Transportation Routes (ETRs) are travel routes that, in case of a major regional emergency or natural disaster, would be prioritized for rapid damage assessment and debris-removal to aid the movement of first responders, people who need medical care, fuel, supplies and equipment.

Outcomes from Phase 1

From 2019 to 2021, Metro partnered with the Regional Disaster Preparedness Organization (RDPO) on the first phase of the project to reassess and update the designated RETRs for the five-county Portland-Vancouver metropolitan region, which includes Clackamas, Columbia, Multnomah and Washington counties in Oregon and Clark County in Washington. Before that, the last update occurred in 2006.

The primary outcome of the first phase was a regionally-accepted network made up of 1,204 miles over 195 total routes connecting over 75% of state and regional critical infrastructure and essential facilities.

There were 89 new routes totaling 305 miles added to the network. Visit the RDPO project page to view the route maps and detailed regional ETR data charts.

Criteria across the following three dimensions were used to identify the best regional routes for emergency response during a seismic event

- Connectivity and access to regional assets and from state to local routes
- Route infrastructure resilience to multiple natural hazards
- Equitable access to vulnerable and isolated communities

Desired outcome for Phase 2

This second planning phase will build on the previous work on regional ETRs by developing a tiering methodology and prioritization framework to inform which routes among the identified regional ETRs should be evaluated, cleared and opened first, next and last in a catastrophic scenario; and to guide on-going maintenance and capital investments to ensure top tier routes are increasingly resilient.

Metro RDPO

Regional Disaster Preparedness Organization

Project timeline and decision-making

Phase 2 scoping began in fall 2023 and the project is expected to be completed in spring 2026. Project recommendations will be brought forward for review and endorsement consideration by regional policymakers, including the RDPO Steering Committee, the RDPO Policy Committee, the Metro Council, Metro Joint Policy Advisory Committee on Transportation (JPACT) and the Southwest Regional Transportation Council (RTC).

Project phases

- Fall 2023 to summer 2024: Project set up and scoping
- Fall 2024 to spring 2025: Assess data and develop tiering methodology
- Summer to fall 2025: Review and refinement of tiering methodology
- Winter 2025 to spring 2026: Review and acceptance process

Partnerships and collaboration

The regional ETR update project is co-led by the Regional Disaster Preparedness Organization (RDPO) at the City of Portland and Metro and will be supported by a number of local, regional and state partners, as well as a consultant.

As in Phase 1, Phase 2 will rely on existing RDPO and Metro technical committees and working groups, as well as briefings to county-level technical coordinating committees to engage individual cities within each county in a coordinated manner.

Other agencies and groups will be engaged and consulted as key stakeholders due to their roles in emergency response and/or critical infrastructure and social services for vulnerable populations, including community-based organizations and RDPO discipline-specific work groups.

This project is a collaboration between public, private and non-profit stakeholders, co-led by the five-county, bi-state Regional Disaster Preparedness Organization (RDPO) and Oregon Metro, the metropolitan planning organization designated by the Governor of Oregon to serve the urban portions of Clackamas, Multnomah and Washington counties.

Funding for this project is being provided by an Urban Areas Security Initiative grant.

Clackamas County Board of Commissioners Approves New Performance-Based Contract with American Medical Response (AMR)

OREGON CITY, Or. – The Clackamas County Board of Commissioners on Thursday adopted a new performance-based contract with American Medical Response Northwest, Inc. (AMR) to provide ambulance services to the Clackamas ambulance service area. The contract will remain in effect until June 30, 2035 unless it is terminated or extended.

With this performance-based contract, AMR will be held accountable for meeting specific standards, including response times and quality of care. While previous contracts imposed penalties for missed response times, the new contract also offers incentives for strong clinical performance. This new approach encourages continuous improvement and offers greater flexibility in addressing challenges.

“When someone in our community needs an ambulance, it’s so important that it arrives quickly and that they receive quality care,” said Clackamas County Chair Craig Roberts. “Ambulance response times have been a region-wide struggle over the past few years, but I am pleased that recently here in Clackamas County we have been seeing positive trends. This new contract with AMR will help ensure that those positive trends continue and that AMR meets clinical performance metrics in addition to response time requirements. Innovative programs like nurse navigation also help ensure that residents get the quality care they need.”

Notable additions to the contract include:

- Clinical performance metrics with built-in incentives
- Updated response time requirements (with rewards and penalties)
- Nurse navigation (launched in 2024) and secure transport services
- Data dashboards, electronic charting and upgraded technology
- Enhanced compliance and performance improvement processes
- Option to allow Basic Life Support (BLS) ambulances
- Increased transparency and accountability

Due to the rising cost of health care, patient rates are increasing. As part of the new contract, AMR agreed to continue providing their Compassionate Care Program, which provides assistance to those experiencing financial hardship.

In 2023, AMR was placed on a performance improvement plan at the direction of the Clackamas County Board of Commissioners for failing to meet performance requirements.

At the time, emergency medical services across the region were facing challenges with ambulance response times, primarily due to staffing shortages.

AMR has made significant investments in its workforce over the past two years, including scholarships and work-study programs to attract and support new emergency medical technicians (EMTs) and paramedics. Currently, AMR in Clackamas County is fully staffed and has consistently met the required response time standards for the past five months.

The previous contract expired on April 30, 2025, triggering provisions that required AMR to continue services for up to 90 days or until a new agreement was in place. That contract was a one-year extension of a contract that was set to expire on May 1, 2024. The extension was granted to enable AMR to overhaul its operations in order to comply with response time requirements.

“Getting this contract to the finish line has taken a lot of hard work, and I want to thank everyone at Clackamas County and everyone at AMR who made it happen,” said Clackamas County Health, Housing and Human Services Deputy Director Philip Mason-Joyner.
